To Our Loyal Family,

As most of you are well aware by now, 30 Seconds to Mars is currently at work on their third studio album, despite our well-publicized legal situation and the absence of a record label. We want you to know that amidst all the uncertainty and chaos, we have never been so inspired and excited.

For so many reasons, creating this album has been a completely new and exciting journey for the band and, as we continue on this journey, we want to make sure that you are involved as well. We have always believed that our successes are yours, our achievements are a symbol of your hard work and our inspiration is very much a result of your collective creativity, individuality, dedication and passion. We want your contribution and ideas...

We're looking for new and creative ideas on how to get our message out in the world. Are there guerilla street promotions, internet strategies we should employ or competitions we should run? Are there street team strategies we should consider? Cities we should think about visiting? Let us know all the weird and wonderful ways we can re-introduce the world to 30 Seconds to Mars.

Email your ideas to 30secondstomarsemail@gmail.com.

Time for the Echelon to rise once again and take to the streets in the name of MARS!
